

Ted Higase Named Global Crossing Executive Vice President, Carrier Sales

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE: TUESDAY, JANUARY 8, 2002

Madison, N.J. – Global Crossing Ltd. (NYSE: GX) announced today the appointment of Ted Higase as executive vice president of carrier sales. Effective immediately, Higase will oversee all sales and marketing activities relating to the communications company's carrier customers.

"Ted Higase has proven abilities to drive revenue growth, win large global contracts and expand communications service offerings," said John Legere, chief executive officer of Global Crossing. "We're looking to Ted to lead our carrier sales unit to even greater success in the global wholesale bandwidth marketplace."

Higase previously served as president of carrier services at Asia Global Crossing (NYSE: AX), where he was responsible for corporate-wide sales and marketing, as well as for product management for the company's wholesale customer segment, including carriers and service providers. Higase helped win many large global and regional capacity customers for Asia Global Crossing. He also launched the world's fastest trans-Pacific backbone network supporting wholesale IP transit sales, and expanded the company's footprint across the Asia Pacific region.

Before joining Asia Global Crossing in 2000, Higase was corporate director and general manager of the preferred accounts division at Dell Computer Corporation in Japan, where he achieved 60 percent year-over-year growth in sales to medium-sized businesses. From 1990 to 1998, Mr. Higase enjoyed a successful career at AT&T, where he was one of the company's youngest division managers.

Mr. Higase holds an MBA from Drake University and a bachelor's degree in international relations from the University of California, Davis. He also completed the Executive Development Program at Wharton Business School.

Higase replaces Patrick Joggerst, who is leaving Global Crossing to pursue other opportunities.
